The Manet North Quincy

Dedication

We dedicate this book to Miss Katherine G. McCoy whose sympathetic interest, contagious enthusiasm, and tireless activity have made her a lasting friend of the class of '47.

Foreword

This volume is a permanent record of the events of one year—the senior year of the Class of 1947, listing its members with their activities and attainments. May this record be an inspiration to those who follow and a lasting satisfaction to those who played the parts narrated here. May it keep alive friendships and associations, and preserve in proud memory the achievements recorded herein.

My message to the Class of 1947 in this yearbook is twofold: one of congratulations for accomplishment in all things that are beneficial in preparation for the next step in the all-important journey through life; the other an expression of sincere best wishes for further success in the realization of cherished hopes in the chosen careers of life. Now is the time to consider seriously the many prospects ahead and to build upon the sound foundation provided by a proper educational background.

The entire class is shown herewith pictorially as a unit. Its many parts and activities are also represented in like manner. Unity of action is shown in many ways and illustrates clearly an important principle in the art of living. May the lessons thus taught be not merely pleasant memories but also guides of conduct in the associations that lie ahead.

Tri-Hi-Y

"To create and maintain throughout the community high standards of Christian character." Thus reads the purpose of Tri-Hi-Y. Although this organization may not receive a great deal of fan-fare, they have done the school innumerable services. For example, during this past year they co-operated with the student council in campaigning for a cleaner cafeteria.

Throughout the year at their various meetings at the "Y", they've had many interesting speakers, besides many very educational films. Along with the more serious side of Tri-Hi-Y is coupled its various recreational programs. The girls have engaged in splash parties, dances, weiner roasts, joint meetings with other "Hi-Y's", and excursion trips. One of the most enjoyable trips the girls took last year was to Newburyport to visit Mr. and Mrs. Hardy. Mrs. Hardy used to teach here at North and Mr. Hardy was the Tri-Hi-Y advisor.

This year the organization welcomed a new advisor, Robert Reardon. Mr. Reardon is a very capable young man and well liked by all the girls. The faculty advisor here at North is our own Miss McCoy. The officers, who did a wonderful job during the past year are:

Claire Gallagher
Mary Murray
Marion Myers
Elizabeth Fitzgerald

President
Vice-President
Secretary
Treasurer

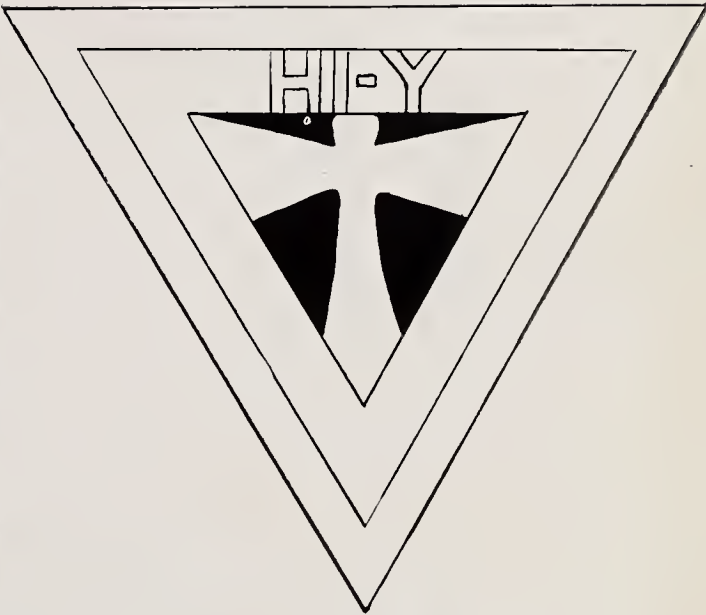

The Hi-Y is in action again this year meeting bi-monthly, Tuesday nights, under the adroit guidance of Bob Reardon. The organization consists of a select group of boys whose purpose in life is to set a "shining" example for others in the senior high to follow.

Among the accomplishments of this year's club have been the opening of North Quincy's Youth Canteen, where, incidentally most of the group's meetings are held, a dance put on co-operatively by all the Hi-Y's and Tri-Hi-Y's of Quincy on New Year's Eve in the Quincy Y. M. C. A., and a joint meeting with our own Tri-Hi-Y last December.

Three lucky members: Al Clifford, Bruce Lindbom, and Eddie Radcliffe went to Lowell in December, "on business," consisting of the 57th annual Older Boys' Conference. The conference chose for its motto, "let's live," and the boys certainly took it straight to heart, for from their accounts we gather that co-operation and interest were far from lacking.

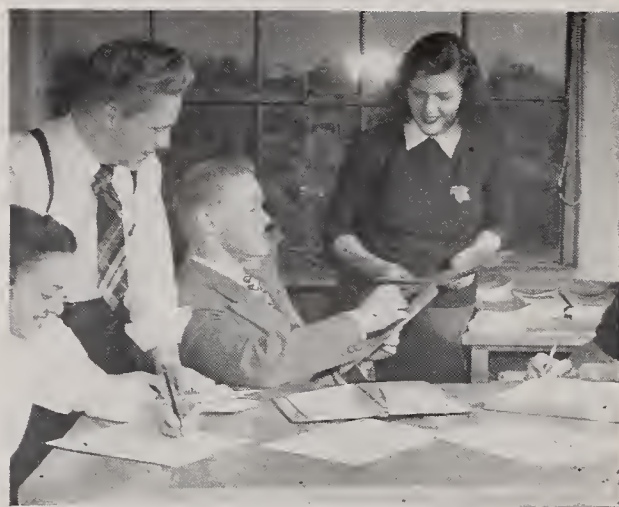

Hi-Y was organized in the earlier years of school history to help mold better citizens and to teach Christian living to its members—a fine ideal for a fine organization; we're all for it.

The officers this year include: Donald Keay, President; Robert Bellevue, Vice-President; Alvin Clifford, Secretary, and Gordon Wicklund, Treasurer.

Hi-Y

Sr. Student Council

The Student Council is North's self-governing service organization composed of twenty-one members elected the previous spring to represent their classmates. In the rush of school affairs, the Council is sometimes forgotten, but do you remember those people who came around to your homeroom to talk up and make the Community Fund Drive as big a success as ever? Remember the annual round table in which the social calendar was made, the barn dance, those ever-present posters encouraging you to clean up the Cafeteria, the primary and final elections? Well, all these and others have been planned, worked on, and executed by the Student Council under the able direction of the faculty advisor, Mr. Noyes. In addition, stimulating and sometimes rather heated discussions are often held in 319 while the members attempt to solve some of the school's complex problems. These discussions are led and refereed by the president, Roy Niemela. Other officers include Vice-President, Marjorie Morin; Secretary, Eleanor Gosard; and Treasurer, Robie Nickerson.

The National Honor Society is an organization whose object is to create an enthusiasm for scholarship, stimulate a desire to render service, promote worthy leadership, and encourage the development of character in the pupils at North Quincy High School. Therefore, membership has been based on character, leadership, service, and scholarship. Members were inducted last spring at an impressive service in which they received their membership cards and pins from Mr. Collins. Monthly meetings of the Society have been held throughout the year. One of the privileges accorded to members is that of competing with 1,274 other schools for ten three-hundred dollar scholarships offered for the first time last year and again this year. The faculty advisor is Miss Katherine Horrigan and the officers include President, Robert Powers; Vice-President, Irene O'Neil; Secretary, Ann Cummings; and Treasurer, Russell Shorey.

Spanish Club

Saludos, Amigos!

The Club Caballero has had a busy and profitable year under the direction of Senor don Juan Walsh.

The membership, which numbers approximately thirty-five, is composed of Spanish students who are interested in and desirous of learning about our neighbors to the south. It is the further purpose of the club to learn to speak the Spanish tongue fluently. In order to accomplish this goal, the group listens to Spanish speaking records.

The social highlights of the year were a hayride, a Christmas party, a Spanish Supper with all the trimmings, and the traditional Fiesta. Brightly colored gowns, gay decorations, rhythmic music, beautiful señoritas, and handsome senores, all helped to create a Spanish atmosphere of charm and gaiety.

Although the club has no officers, there is a commendable spirit of co-operation among the members.

The Club Caballero has certainly had a busy and enjoyable year.

Viva Espana!

One of the most important service organizations here at school is the Student Secretarial Staff. This busy group is composed entirely of Senior commercial girls who are appointed either to assist in the office or to act as secretaries to department heads and teachers, relieving them of many of the clerical details that are part of a teacher's life. Besides being a marvelous aid to the teachers the girls themselves are also benefiting, in that they gain valuable practice and experience in taking dictation, typing, filing, and acquiring other commercial skills. Among other duties performed the girls type and mimeograph a daily list of the school absentees for the office.

The students are rated by their co-operation and performance in these assignments, and these ratings are of value when the guidance department recommends the girls for positions. Although it means giving up many homeroom and study periods, the members of the staff find after graduation that this experience gives them confidence and poise in their first job.

Under the capable direction of Miss Gormley, the faculty advisor, the Student Secretarial Staff has won a permanent place among North's service activities.

Traffic Squad

If some of your classmates leave class a few minutes early, don't envy them. They are going on traffic duty! They must brave the avalanche of students rushing from the rooms on their way to the next class. Furthermore, these courageous people are expected to take a friendly yet firm hand against any violators of our school traffic laws.

How can one become a traffic officer? Well, first, one is recommended by a teacher. Then the name must have the approval of several others in authority.

What are the duties of the traffic officer? He is expected to set a high standard in corridor behavior for the rest of the pupils. Under the direction of Mr. Meany, the new faculty adviser, and Irene O'Neil, Robie Nickerson, and Robert Powers, student captains, this year's squad has kept this high standard.

Almost everyone likes a friendly argument and the Pro and Con Club is just for such people. Already it has become very popular among the seniors in the social studies curriculum. It meets every two weeks in order to discuss the different current problem planned for each meeting.

Also the club has many other extremely interesting activities besides the regular discussion periods. One of these is its appearance on the radio program, Junior Town Meeting of the Air. This year the big day was February 8 and the topic was "Are We Accomplishing Our Aims in Germany?"

For the first time, the club has joined the Massachusetts Civic League and various members have attended three meetings in order to learn about state government. The club realizes that the students of today are the citizens of tomorrow and its purpose is to train the members for their duties as future citizens of a democracy.

The club is under the direction of Miss Flavin and the officers are President—Paul Doherty; Vice-President—Anne Minden; Secretary—Joy Webb; Treasurer—Barbara Drake.

Pro & Con Club

To the girls of North being a Senior has always meant belonging to the Girls' Club, which, in turn, means all kinds of fun. The same activities are carried on year after year, but new girls bring new ideas and the Club grows with them.

Starting with Initiation Day in the 11th grade when all the girls came to school looking like something escaped from a side show, the Club got into full swing. A picnic in September started the year right. Service activities, such as welfare collections and party favors for veterans, took up the next few months. At Christmas there was the party in the Library with presents under the tree and a fire blazing. There was also the annual Christmas play, written and presented by the girls themselves.

Then with the new year came new activities: a splash party, the Valentine's Day semi-formal, the Red Cross Show, and finally the Mothers' Tea and Fashion Show. So many things—it's hard to say which was the most fun. Was it the romantic atmosphere of the Valentine's dance or the more down-to-earth hilarity of the Red Cross Show? Or maybe it was being dressed up and acting "like a lady" at the Mothers' Tea. Or it might have been a dozen other things.

Anyhow, it all spells Girls' Club and one of the big reasons why being a Senior is so wonderful.

Officers for '46-'47 were: President, Sarah Martin; Vice-president, Mary Hayes; Secretary, Irene O'Neil; Treasurer, Jean Kemno; and Faculty Advisor, Miss Sisson.

Cub

Biology Club

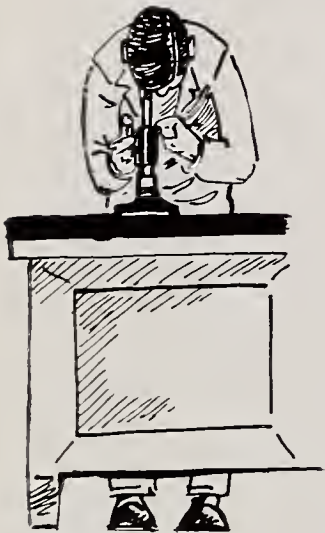

Under Miss Schield's excellent guidance, the Biology Club enables eager young scientists to further pursue their quest for scientific knowledge.

The entire facilities of the biology laboratory are available to the members permitting them to become proficient in the use of various instruments and apparatus. Every Wednesday, the members labor far into the afternoon on special projects which they conduct of their own accord. A few examples of these include experiments in bacteriology, photomicrography, and conchology. The club's members soon become accustomed to the aroma of formaldehyde and the presence of fearsome wild animals namely guinea pigs, rats, mice, and frogs.

During the year they are privileged to hear various speakers, and to make field trips to many colleges and experimental stations. Frequently, the members themselves give lectures and demonstrations based on their own hobbies and projects.

The club's only officers are Russell Shorey, president, and Katherine Mullin, secretary.

Mi mi mi mi mi! Every Tuesday morning, melodious sounds can be heard issuing from room 402, where North's own Glee Club is rehearsing under the capable and inspiring leadership of Miss Fitts. The old proverb "Practice makes perfect" is certainly applicable in the case of our Glee Club, for many hours of rehearsal are spent before the talented singers present themselves to an audience. The beautiful music heard at the Thanksgiving, Christmas, and Memorial Day assemblies is greatly enjoyed and appreciated by teachers and students alike. Special activities in which the Glee Club participates are the spring music festival, the Promenade, and the annual Glee Club concert. The Glee Club has made a fine record for itself, one that will be hard to beat.

Glee Club

Band

Here comes the blaring band marching resolutely down the field, led by strutting drum-majorettes. The crowd roars a thunderous cheer and then the game starts.

The band, which plays an indispensable part in creating atmosphere and arousing school spirit at any event, is an organization of which the school may well be proud. Yet, the glamour of parades and athletic events is only a small part of band life, for each appearance represents hours of practice and marching drills. Of course, the band is most evident during the football season, but in reality, the real work begins after the games are over, for then it commences the tedious work of practicing for festivals and concerts.

With its fifty competent musicians, the band has had an excellent year under the able leadership of Miss Fitts, its new director, and hopes to go on and win the class music championship as it did last year. The arrival of Mr. Ivor Nelson as music director also promises many changes for the better so that you may hope for an even bigger and better band next year.

Scene: North Quincy High auditorium.

Time: About 8:00 on a warm May night.

The Audience is seated; the house light dim; the curtain rises; the conductor lifts her magic wand—and presto! the air is filled with beautiful music. The occasion? the orchestra's annual May concert at North. Moreover, this performance represents long hours of practice. Every Thursday morning, this group of ardent musicians gather in room 402 for an hour of diligent orchestral practice under the capable leadership of Miss Fitts.

Besides its May concert, which is the culmination of the year's work, this organization also plays for various assemblies such as the Christmas program, and for graduation exercises in June. Thus, the orchestra offers boys and girls a valuable chance not only to develop musically but also to give service to their school.

Class Play

Under the able guidance of Mr. Forrest, the would be actors learned more about the theater, and in doing so had many good times. They put on an amateur radio broadcast and also did many radio skits to develop and train their voices. Over a period of many months, various selections from "Junior Miss" were given at the club's weekly meetings. In giving these selections, Mr. Forrest trained the new actors in poise and stage technique.

Besides just learning about stage work, the members also went to see two productions of the Community Players, of which Mr. Forrest is president. Coupled with this, the club had many social meetings at which Don Keay played the piano and the rest of the members grouped around the piano for a community sing. All in all, for a new group it's been a very successful and enjoyable year. Officers elected for this year were president—Jack Stevens, vice-president—Ann Cummings, and secretary—Elinor McNeice.

Prom! Four letters. As if four letters could express everything the Prom means: corsages and tuxes, the family car, and maybe the Copley Plaza or Stoney Brae afterwards. Every Senior thinks of the Prom like this, but only the Prom Committee knows of the work behind it all.

Favors, decorations, invitations, orchestra, ushers—all presented problems never dreamed of until the Prom Committee encountered them. Starting months ahead of time, they worked and planned to make the Prom something to remember. And they did!

Boys, suddenly distinguished, and girls, unbelievably lovely, danced and laughed and talked and knew that their Prom would never be forgotten. It was the perfect climax to a perfect year, and the Prom Committee had made it that way.

Prom Committee

Library Staff

This year the library and social studies staffs joined forces under the capable direction of Miss Sherman and Miss Pratt. Being one of the most valuable service organizations at North, the Library Staff assists in various duties pertinent to running the school library and social studies room. These include checking books in and out, arranging them on shelves, hunting down lost (?) library slips, and guarding the social studies room.

However, the Library Staff doesn't represent all work and no play. It, too, enjoys various social events throughout the year. Of course, the annual Mothers' Tea is the most important event requiring a bustle of planning and preparation before the momentous day. Also on the program this year are a play to be performed by several girls on the staff, an evening at the Pop's Concert in Spring, and an afternoon picnic at Miss Pratt's summer home in June.

This year, for the first time, points for service are to be given toward earning awards. These will be presented to the girls with over ninety per cent of the possible points. There will also be a higher and more coveted award for those who help most to make the Library Staff year a successful one.

All in all, the Library Staff offers girls from grades ten through twelve a splendid opportunity to be of service to the school and to gain valuable experience.

The officers of the staff this year are the following: President—Jean Giddings; Vice-President—Rachel Goetchius; Secretary—Lucille Geyer; Treasurer—Joyce Lindholm.

North Star

At last North has proved itself capable of publishing an interesting, timely newspaper containing current news of life here at school. Although The North Star was started last year, it didn't really become assured of success until this fall. Few of us realize, when we dash back to our homerooms every other Thursday to get a copy, that a great deal of work goes into those four pages, which contain, among many other interesting articles, such popular features as the gossip column, the club news, and the Sport Section.

By the Thursday before the day of issue those two energetic editors, Irene O'Neil and Paul Doherty, have already given their approval to the articles, and Miss Meisner, the editorial advisor, after checking their work, has handed it over to the typists, under the direction of Miss Tolchinsky. While this busy staff is doing its work, the editors are blocking off a dummy paper. Then on Friday the paper goes to press and the whole North Star breathes a sigh of relief.

Very special mention should be made of the Circulation Staff under Constance Twyman, whose job it is to distribute the papers; and the Advertising Staff, under Jean Kemno, who must solicit ads to pay for the paper. If every class could have a hard working group such as the one connected with The North Star this year, then the paper should continue indefinitely in its success.

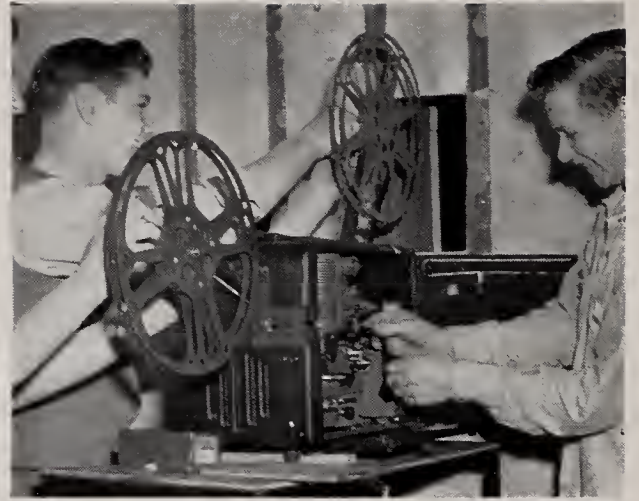

This year marks the rifle club's first active season since 1942 when shooting was curtailed because of shortages of ammunition. Fifty boys, more than half of whom are in the ninth grade, are participating in this varsity sport, shooting two afternoons a week from October to April under the direction of Mr. Beede. Matches with teams from other schools have been scheduled, the first of which resulted in North's victory over Braintree. The club is affiliated with the National Rifle Association, and the members qualify for various awards as well as for medals given by the Director of Civilian Marksmanship of the War Department. In addition, the teams are entered in the annual Hearst Tournament. The officers elected for the year are President, Floyd Garrett; Vice-President, Fred Chase; Secretary-Treasurer, Lawrence Maibach.

Rifle Club

Motion Picture Operators

Supervised by Mr. Forest, the Motion Pictures Operators Club is composed of about thirty-five industrious young men who have an opportunity to gain some valuable training and at the same time to give service to the school. Well-known and readily welcomed by students, (who much prefer watching a movie, even an intellectual one, to taking tests), the members of the organization give up study periods to service of this kind.

Moreover, the operators are a valuable asset to assembly programs, taking charge of the public address system and showing various films throughout the year. For the first time in many years, they have been able to operate motion pictures from the auditorium booth due to the ingenuity and skill of their president, Albert Readdy.

However, this is not the full extent of their work, for they also keep the machines in repair, supply new and better methods of operating the projectors, and instruct younger members in motion picture operation.

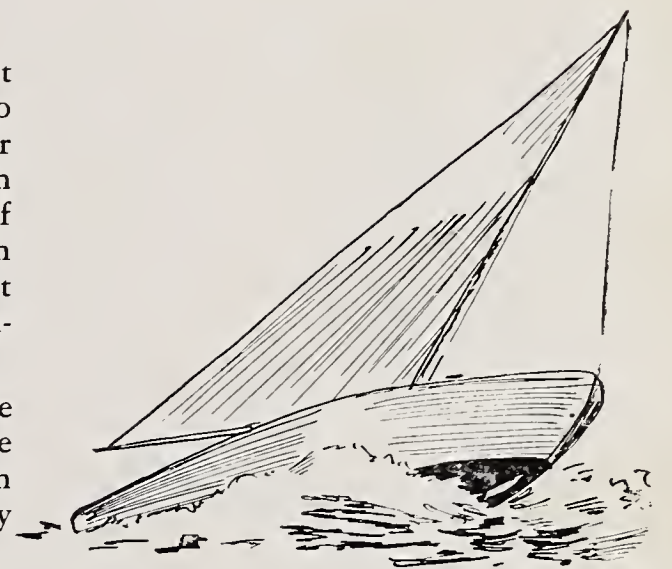

The officers this year are the following: President—Albert Readdy; Vice-President—Dick Stratton; Secretary—Phillip James; Maintenance—Stan Young.

After an absence of several years, the Sailing Club is again back at North. Under the direction of Mr. LeCain, this club is open to all who have a genuine interest in sailing. Every Tuesday morning the senior and junior group gathers in room 214 for an informal discussion with Mr. LeCain on the fundamentals of sailing. Since he is a veteran of many years of racing experience and has a great deal of knowledge on this subject, he is certainly well qualified to lead this club. He has taught the group many necessary and interesting things about sailing in general and racing in particular.

As racing is a summer sport, the group is looking forward to the end of winter and is starting to make plans already for races. Because not all the members have boats, Mr. LeCain is trying his best to obtain some small sailboats. Good luck to the group in any races they may have and continued success to this new club.

Sailing Club

Junior Class

This year the Junior Class was fortunate to have four fine officers who worked hard to make the junior year a memorable year for all. Early in December they planned and sponsored an informal dance appropriately termed, the Snow Frolic. The bare gym was transformed into an attractive dance hall with paper snowmen and red and white decorations. It was a huge success and a credit to the underclassmen. In the spring, the annual semi-formal was held and enjoyed by all who attended.

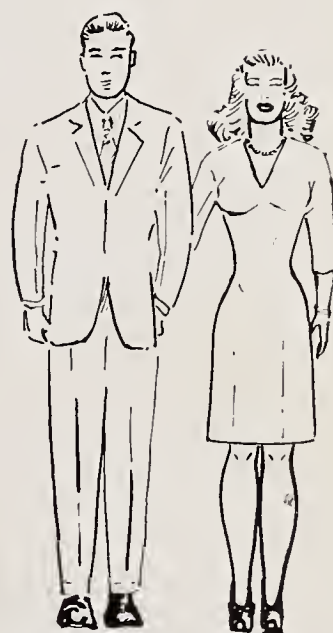

Also, the tradition started last year of buying class rings was continued. The Juniors received their attractive rings in March and had the pleasure of wearing them through the spring. The capable officers were President—Roger Fisher; Vice-President—Priscilla Olsson; Secretary—Dorothy Flint; Treasurer—Thomas Finneran.

Just about the fondest memories of a student's career are connected with his senior year, the final step before braving the elements of the "outer world." This year's senior class has seemed to us the best yet, but, of course, we're just prejudiced!

The first big affair of the season was a sport dance on October 5 ably entitled "The Pigskin Hop," to which students from Dedham High School were cordially invited. Decorations were highly athletic: megaphones, footballs, batons, goal posts, streamers, everything to set the mood of informality. Patterned after this was the basketball dance held in March, a similar success. In between class meetings, the Prom Committee was breathlessly chosen and the fateful date proclaimed to be April 25. The class play was another undertaking, revived this year (successfully—so we hope!) and put on by a dozen or more hard working seniors. For frosty weather, the auditorium remained open during lunch periods with occasional entertainment. All too soon came June and graduation. We, of the Senior Class are indebted to Edward Radcliffe, president; Mary Luce, vice-president; Arthur Morrissey, treasurer; and Jacqueline King, secretary, for making our last year at North an unforgettable page in our book of memories.

Senior Class

Girls Sports

If you had chanced to pass the gym on certain afternoons during the fall and winter, you would have seen a group of girls enjoying an afternoon of fun and sportsmanship. Those athletically inclined here at North formed teams among themselves. This year most of the indoor time was spent playing basketball by mutual consent of all concerned.

In the Spring the interest shifted from basketball to softball. Here again different teams were formed and shouts of "Batter up" and "Let's play ball" rang out over the front lawn. Also early in the spring, ping-pong and badminton contests were arranged and were supported by many of the girls.

One of the most outstanding events was the gym demonstration on Parents' Night. It consisted of folk dancing by the Junior High; ball room dancing including the fox trot, conga, and waltz; and gymnastics and marching by the Senior High.

Girls' sports is under the capable direction of Miss McCoy, who has given many valuable suggestions to the girls. They thoroughly enjoy the relaxation and fun among themselves and the pleasure derived from good, clean competition.

Our football prospects for 1946 did not appear too bright as the season opened. The only veterans who returned were Leo Luchini, Lloyd Carroll, and Bruce Lindbom. After only nine days' practice we played Braintree in an exhibition game at the South Shore Jamboree held at the Quincy Stadium. We won by a score of 14 to 0. Next on the schedule was Watertown, a new opponent, whom we defeated 13 to 12. We triumphed again when Boston College High was defeated 33 to 6. After that came Dedham, a persistent North jinx, but it also was turned back 13 to 12. Then came a visit to Weymouth, where we suffered our first defeat, losing by a score of 27 to 6. Hingham was the next one to be completely outplayed by a score of 14 to 0. Next came Norwood, one of our great rivals. Twice during the game we came from behind to tie the score and then went on to score another touch-down, thus winning by a score of 20 to 14. 33 to 6 was the score of the following Saturday's game, in which Milton was completely crushed. After that Rindge Tech also lost to us 13 to 2. That left only Quincy. After leading 6 to 0 on a 93 yard touch-down run by Roy Shaughnessy we went down to superior manpower and were beaten 31 to 6.

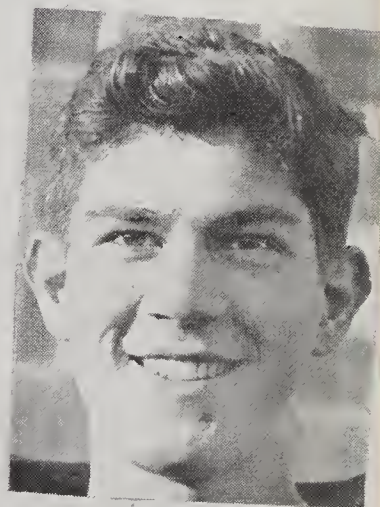

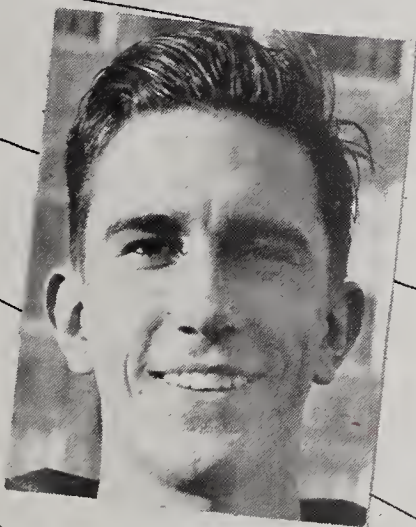

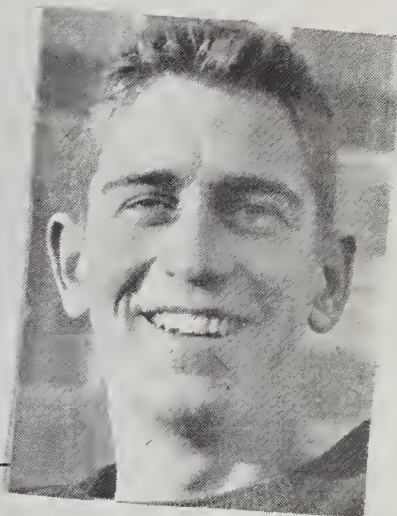

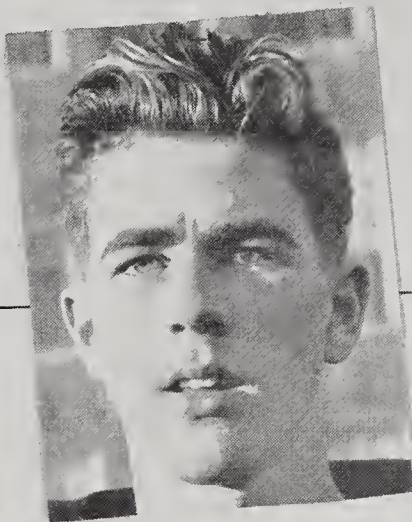

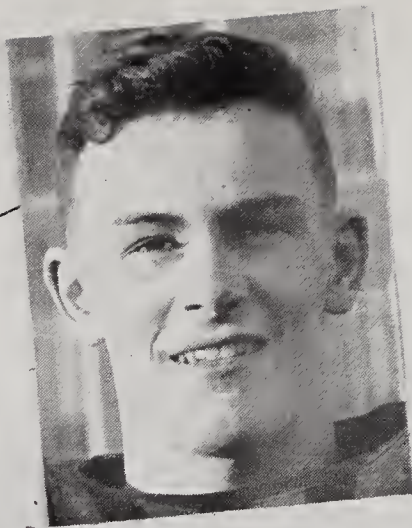

The regular team was made up of Lloyd Carroll and Lou DiBona and Harry Collins at ends. Ed Smith, Bill O'Connell and Bill Bell at the guards, Bob Doherty at center and Captain Leo Luchini, Bruce Lindbom, Roy Shaughnessy, Bob Richards, and Art Barrett in the backfield. Kenny Donovan was this year's senior manager.

The team was led by Captain Leo Luchini one of the finest backs ever to represent North. He was selected as a member for the All-South Shore team, he also received honors from the Boston Post as well as honorable mention in every other paper for his spectacular sportsmanship.

At the banquet given by the North Quincy Alumni Football team on January 15, the lettermen received their sweaters and gold footballs. For the first time the Alumni team also awarded two beautiful trophies: one to the most outstanding back, Leo Luchini; and the other to Joe Concannon the most outstanding line-man. This season's record lists seven wins and two losses, thus giving us, the class of '47, an enviable record of 21 wins, 5 losses, and 1 tie, which includes two victories over Quincy for our three years at North. This is the first year at North in the history of football that a team has scored at least one touch-down in every game. By scoring 151 points to our opponents' 110, we broke the school record for the second year in succession, as well as being runners up for the Class C championship for the second consecutive year.

Although North's first game of the '47 basketball season was comparatively unpublicized, its steadily growing list of victories soon attracted attention as well as capacity crowds. The team started the season right by winning from Brookline, 44 to 17, and following it up with a 45 to 39 victory over Medford, one of the better teams on the North Shore. Success followed success as North romped through the next four games with Weymouth, Braintree, Quincy, and Stetson with a comfortable margin. At the next away game, the Raiders again triumphed over Medford, 11 points to the good this time. Next, with the season, in full swing, North the talk of the South Shore, Stetson again succumbed. Braintree, a rival from way back, also went under for the second time to the tune of 49 to 30. The real test came late in the season at a home game when North was called upon to sustain its victory streak by turning back a powerful Brockton five led by high-scorer Bob O'Neil. Coming from behind in the latter half, the Raiders forged ahead to nose out the opposing team, 39 to 31. Although Quincy was now anxious for revenge, the boys from the northern part of the city succeeded in overcoming her without too much difficulty in the same way as they defeated Thayer a week later. However, with North's record at 14 straight and the season practically at a close, Brockton, in a repeat performance, managed to hand the Raiders their first defeat by a slim one point. A combination of Boston Garden and Everett's zone defense halted the team for the second and last time, two points being the deciding factor.

An outstanding seasonal record had won the coveted invitation to the Tourney, raising hopes to a new high. Waltham was the opponent and enthusiasm was at a peak. The game was a close one, closer than had been expected, and North was edged out 33 to 30. It was the opinion of many, however, that North's brilliant season compensated in part for this rather disappointing climax.

It is generally agreed that Captain "Cid" Cedrone is one of North's really outstanding players. His absolute coolness on any floor, his unerring accuracy, and his smoothness as a ball-handler and play-maker, are just a few reasons for his being indispensable to the team. Buddy Barrett and Ed McCauley, the forwards, played a definitely superior brand of basketball racking up double figure scores on many occasions. Buddy was known for his work on the backboards while McCauley continually amazed the spectators with hook shots, a specialty of his. Another important factor in North's success was lanky Harry Collins, whose steady defensive play staved off many a threat. Richie Sullivan, a junior, contributed much to the Raiders' effectiveness, "Sully and Cid" furnishing a hard-to-beat combination. Among the subs who saw considerable action were Tommy Finneran, Georgie Johnson, Ed White, and George Doherty.

Let's not forget the junior varsity. Although the record of six wins and ten losses was only mediocre, several of the games were lost by slim margins. Frank Hines, Al Strucker, Jack Gilbody at the forwards, Bob Brigham at center, and Lou DiBona, "Soapy" Morton, and Bob Welsh at the guards made up the first team.

Track

Look at him run! Why, he's another Gil Dodds!

Such enthusiastic praises will be heard from the loyal rooters about North's own track team when it starts rolling this year. This year's schedule will be similar to that of last year.

Many veterans are expected to come back. Among them are seniors Lloyd Carroll, Gordon Wicklund, John Clark, Ray Bernardi, and Rodney Ruppert. Others are Arthur Porter, Joseph Daminski, Norman Rickard and John Stevens. Some of the juniors who, we hope, will turn out for the track events are Paul Fisher, George Bell, and Roger Chambers. In addition to these prospects, many sophomores have shown a keen interest in track this year.

With such promising material available, North's will to win, and Mr. Phillip's capable direction, North's hopes of winning the South Shore and State meets are high.

Tennis

Since the fall and winter sports have come and gone, the spring sports are starting up now. Among these is tennis, one of the fastest games to watch. North's tennis team is under the able direction of Mr. Roy Sinclair.

The chances of the Red and Black netmen aren't too bright. Of last year's outfit, there are only two veterans to make up the backbone of the team—Charles Stevens and William Roberts—and an entire new unit must be built around them. Consequently a great deal of competition is expected. Some of the matches will be played with Quincy, Hingham, Braintree, Thayer and possibly with Weymouth and Milton. These should prove to be very exciting games.

Other North Raiders on the team of 1946-7 are Warren Andrews, Norman Tolman, Thomas Glover, Donald Ten Eyck, and John Caspole who will probably spend all their free time practicing as soon as warm weather arrives.

Cheerleaders

One-two-three-four-five - six - sss - boom! On this familiar note we introduce the exuberant eight who are as much a part of our athletic activities as the players themselves. With seemingly never-ending vigor, they lead the crowds through one perfectly co-ordinated cheer after another, never losing that much talked-of North spirit.

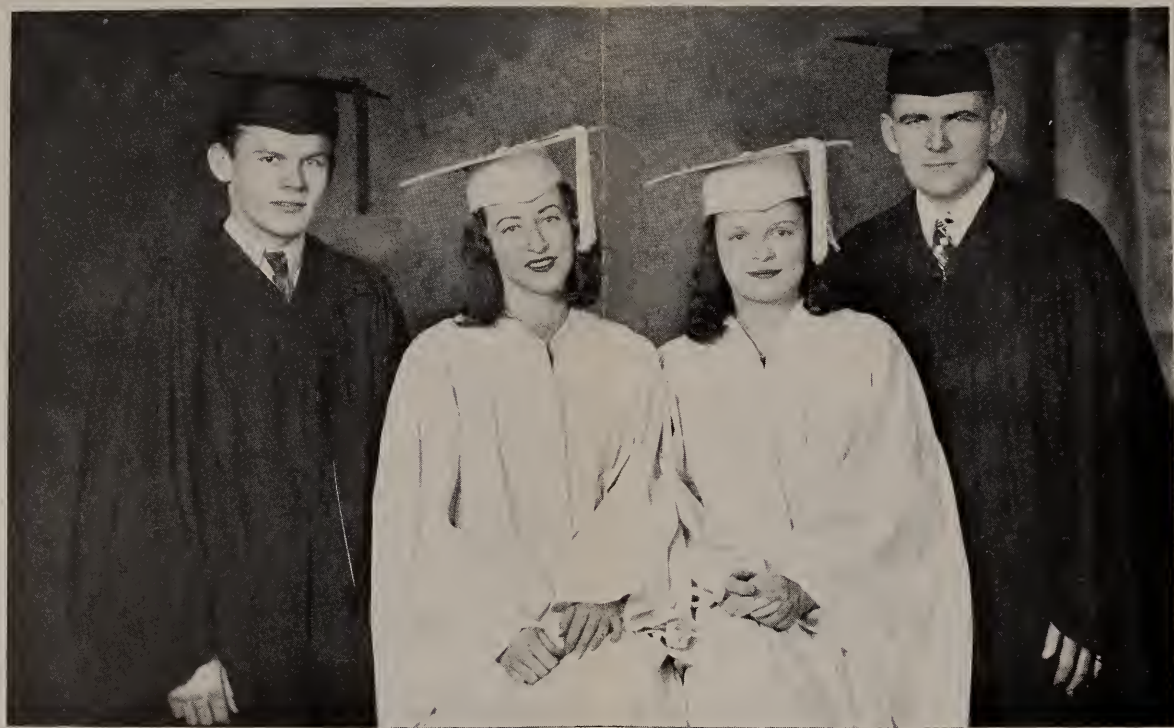

From the first football match to the last game of the basketball season, a cheerleader's career is in full swing. Her many hours of practice can only be recorded in the ahs and ohs of admiring fans and proud Northites whose hoarse voices evidence their appreciation. Several new cheers were introduced this year such as the one involving cartwheels.

A rally just before the Thanksgiving game constitutes a major event of the season. With this fateful contest decided, the cheerleader dons her new attire in preparation for basketball. Fans who witnessed the Medford or the Waltham game of the Tourney, saw her at the half, performing athletic stunts for their benefit. Although this actually signifies the formal end of her participation in school events, a flame-colored booster tag or a well-worn stub is all that is needed to bring our vibrant cheerleaders immediately to mind.

This year's squad, under the direction of Coach Harold Forest, was ably headed by Pat Casey with Marion Myers, Claire Gallagher, Jackie King, Jane White, Shirley Murnane, Jean Desmond, and Betty Geary, in the line-up. A hearty "short-cheer" for our lassies, may next year's group be as fine.

Class History

June 1944

DEAR DIARY,

High school, at last! Today was so different from that first day back in the 7th grade. I still remember how bewildered I was by the long corridors, the seniors who towered above me, the mad rush in the cafeteria, the buzz buzz of the audiophone. That first gym class was quite an experience too, not to mention the novelty of music and art classes. It was all such a change from grammar school and I felt so very grown-up. The seniors seemed to have different ideas, though, as we soon discovered by their amused glances when we passed in the corridors. When life had just about settled down to a familiar pattern, extra-curricular activities began to take on an importance. For days the only topic of conversation was the Junior Student Council elections and oh—what feverish campaigning! Then of course, there were those afternoon dances, first on the list of social “musts.” The assemblies, mostly hilarious, were a big attraction and the basketball and football games were too. It was all a new adventure, and something exciting seemed to happen every day. These past two years, though, the adventure has worn off so that it seems as if we’ve been here forever now. I must know every corner of the place from 402 down to 129 and I can’t think of anything to terrify me any more—except maybe those classes when I’ve neglected to do my homework. It’s very confusing to think that three years have gone by and in another three I’ll be graduated. Yet it seems such a short time ago that I was a 7th grader, giggling, pushing, and rushing eagerly to classes with a green book bag over my shoulder. Now, next fall—High School! I wonder what it’ll be like anyway—I wonder if it’ll be like they say it is. Well, come September, I’ll know. But till then—ah, vacation!

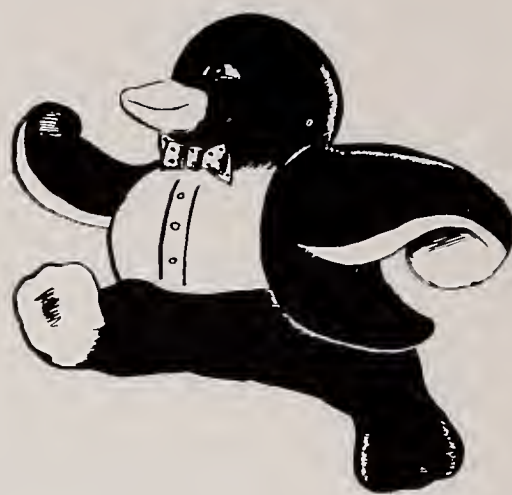

Class History

DEAR DIARY,

Tonight was graduation. I still can't quite believe it. It doesn't seem possible that I won't be seeing some of the kids again. Six years is a long time, and things begin to grow on you after awhile. There's so much I'll miss, but remembering can be fun too. Tonight, for instance—graduation was always something to read about in books and now it's just a memory. There was something rather unreal about it all: singing the Alma Mater, receiving our diplomas, walking sedately up the aisle hoping that cap would stay at the right angle, laughing and talking afterwards, then saying good-bye. And that was all. Could it have been only two or three months ago when I had the days counted till graduation? I remember so many times when the work kept piling up and I never wanted to see another book again. But I always managed to survive and then it started all over again. There were those classes where everything would go wrong all at once and the teacher just didn't understand. But there were a few too that were really something to look forward to. One of the things I'll miss most though is football. There's nothing exactly like watching one of those Raiders race down the field for a touchdown as they have so often. Basketball was very exciting too. Especially this last year, those boys were really good—and when we went to the Tourney—! Dances were a big feature and so much fun too—barn dances, record hops, informals, semi's and the Prom! The Prom was like nothing else and I don't think I'll ever forget it. Probably no one else will either. Oh yes, the Victory dances, banquets, the North Star on Thursdays, the Red Cross Shows, the trips in town to plays and special movies, and on and on. If I'm not careful I'll be writing a book here. Well, it's about time to close, and tomorrow's another day. Guess I'll wait and see what happens. I know one thing though—I'll certainly miss North and all the fun I've had—and all the friends I've made.

Clothes that make the grade

For a major course in smart clothes try Kennedy's famous Undergrad Shop . . . the place where all up-and-coming young men gather for the smartest clothes in the classroom or on the campus. You'll find jackets, slacks, topcoats, suits and furnishings with just the right amount of dash and color . . . style and wearability . . . to rate a Grade A report in any school.
